

ABSTRACT

A shelter for a pet includes an enclosure sized for a pet, having an interior space, a wall separating the interior space from exterior space and at least one opening for pet ingress and egress to the interior space. A thermoelectric cooler is mounted in the wall. A first grill is spaced from the wall having the cooler and separates the cooler from the interior space. A second grill is spaced from the opposite side of the wall having the cooler and separating the cooler from exterior space.